

WHAT IS A NEURON?

A neuron is a nerve cell that communicates with other neurons through electrical impulses. Without neurons, virtually everything we do - from thinking to walking - would be impossible.

And how many of these little electrical cells are there in your brain? Approximately 100 billion!

